

Dr. Wenping Li works for Agrilectric Company - a leading quality rice hull ash producer throughout the world. Her responsibilities include product and application development, and technical support internally for production, sales and marketing and externally for existing and potential customers. She was the AFS 2008 Annual Spring Conference Technical Co-Chair, and is currently an AFS board member. She is devoted to fundamental development and practical applications of filtration and separations.