

China's Filtration and Separation Industry, Now & in the Future

Wang Yanxi

Director, China Nonwoven Technical Association

This paper introduces the development of China's economy during the past 30 years, which drives China's Filtration & Separations industry into a fast track of progress. The serious problems of environment protection of China are described, as large demand is emerging. The huge market of China's Filtration & Separations industry is not only real, but also with great potentialities. The future is indeed very bright.