

Removal of Powder Activated Carbon Using Lenticular Filters

Richard Johnson, and Peter Florez

Purolator Liquid Process Group

Abstract: Removal of Powder Activated Carbon Using Lenticular Filters

Powder activated Carbon is used in the process industry for color adjustment for many applications. Although effective, it can be difficult to remove from the process. This paper details the approach used at one application to scale to production the filtration to remove the powdered carbon from the process stream.