JOIN THE EVOLUTION

The American Filtration & Separations Society (AFS) is a non-profit, educational society whose mission is to provide a forum for exchange of information among engineers, educators, scientists, filtration product users and technologists in all areas of the fluid/particle separations field. In addition to individual members, the AFS Society has a large corporate and consultant membership that spans the filtration and separation industry, as well as component suppliers as sponsoring organizations. The Society hosts an annual conference, AFS FILTCON, expressly developed to advance the state of the industry and educational knowledge base through face-to-face collaboration, providing the perfect platform to showcase your products and technologies.

NETWORKING

AFS members benefit from the opportunity to connect with other industry professionals and build personal relationships that contribute to their individual and company success. To foster networking, the AFS hosts networking events both virtually and in-person through national conferences, local chapter meetings and an active LinkedIn community.

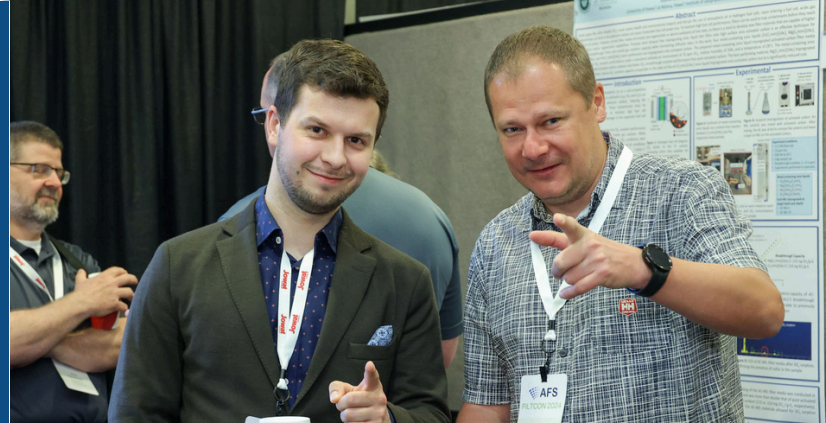

SHARING OF EXPERTISE

The AFS educates newcomers to the field and experienced professionals throughout their careers through educational initiatives, including virtual and in-person short courses, technical conferences, chapter meetings and student poster competitions. The AFS Learning Center offers live and on-demand courses, conference proceedings, journal articles and One Minute Filtration articles.

ADVOCACY

The AFS seeks to inform industry, academia, the general public and the media of the importance and largely untold story of the Filtration and Separation Industry in North America, its long-term socio-environmental impact, and its future potential for the greater good.
